Psychological Testing Policy

Psychological testing is the foundation of how psychologists better understand a person and their behavior. It is a process that helps identify not just weaknesses of a person, but also their strengths. This process encompasses the use of several different instruments that will be selected based on your needs or the needs of your child.

The results of the assessment may provide access to different resources, including placement in a specialized educational environment or extended time on standardized tests. Please note that the psychologist cannot guarantee that the results of the tests will qualify for the desired program. Additionally, while educational recommendations may be suggested by the examining psychologist, it is up to the educational institution to decide on the feasibility of their implementation.

Should you have any questions regarding this policy, please feel free to consult with Dr. Lori Ben-Ezra or your examining psychologist. My signature at the bottom of the page services as my understanding of this policy.
